Dáil Éireann recognises;

- The reunification of Ireland is an objective of Bunreacht na hÉireann.

- There is a growing national discussion around constitutional change with people from diverse backgrounds now exploring the possibility of Irish unity.

This Dáil further notes;

- The Good Friday Agreement 1998 provides the democratic and peaceful means to achieve reunification through the provision of unity referendums.
- The significant Joint Oireachtas Committee on the implementation of the Good Friday Agreement report 'Perspectives on Constitutional Change: Finance and Economics', which received cross party support and recommended the establishment of citizens' assemblies and other relevant forums, a designated Joint Oireachtas Committee and government department to take responsibility for planning and preparing for constitutional change.

Therefore, this Dáil calls on the Irish Government to plan and prepare for Irish unity through the following actions:

- Establish an all-island representative Citizens' Assembly, or Assemblies, to allow for informed debate, and a Joint Oireachtas Committee on Irish Unity to enable careful planning.

- Produce and publish a plan towards Irish unity in conjunction with civic society and key stakeholders.

- Engage with northern protestant and unionist opinion about the future of Ireland
- Work to secure a date for the referendums on unity provided for in the Good Friday Agreement.
